

Use Ditto to replicate permissions across workspaces in Relativity with the click of a button.

Ditto saves Relativity administrators time and effort by replicating user permissions across workspaces or between groups in the same workspace. Relativity administrators get back time to plan their workflows for efficiency, manage their review team, and focus on accuracy, rather than spend valuable time on permission settings.

Problems Ditto Solves

- Propagating updates in workspace templates
- Reducing error-prone manual work
- Quickly resolving accidental group updates
- Filling a gap in native functionality

Benefits

- Eliminates the repetitive and tedious clicks and load times typical in permission setting
- Reduces the risk of missing a permission setting during a manual comparison
- Works “as is” with out-of-the-box deployment
- Offers customization for additional workflows at a lower cost due to an existing framework

Features

- Copy permissions within a workspace and across workspaces
- Simple drop-down functionality for permission setting
- No templates needed to replicate permissions
- Mass-select function for many workspaces
